Editorial comment

Welcome to this, the final issue of 2002. Slightly thinner but just as interesting.

I won't go on about the works still going on to do with the re-generation of Church Street, the Water Board etc, but instead concentrate on the more positive and encouraging aspects in this issue.

As well as the usual advertisers and articles from our regulars, please find details about the forthcoming High School production of 'Sweeney Todd' (page 10), an 'Alpha' supper invitation open to everyone (Church page and page 8), and brief details concerning Christmas Cards based on watercolours by our ex-postmaster and produced with the help of an ex-Headteacher in the village (page 7).

As we are entering the season of 'festivities' of one sort or another how appropriate that our GP should include in a spot of humour! His attempts can be seen on page 15. Judge for yourself. Is he likely to do himself out of a job, I wonder, if, as the saying goes .. "Laughter is the best medicine" How about a 'Joke of the Month' in future? Contributions very welcome as, indeed are any articles likely to give interest to the village and others outside.

Mention is made in the PC notes (page 4 col.1) of a leaflet produced by the Highways Agency relating to the A69. Pick up a copy at the Co-op and have your say on what should happen. For those who missed the consultation exercise in Hexham, there is a repeat in Brampton Library on Wednesday 4th December from 10 'til 12 then 2 'til 4.30pm. See you there?

I am hoping to change the look of the Haydon News during the next year – nothing drastic but different. I would very much welcome your input if you feel that there should be a section on ...? Or less of ..? More pictures, etc. etc. My contact details are on page 2.

Finally, on behalf of the 'Friends of Haydon Bridge' have a Merry Christmas, a Happy New Year and let's all look forward to 2003.

Richard A D Snowdon. (Editor)

Notes from the Parish Council Meeting held in the Community Centre (Haydon Bridge) Thursday 28th November 2002 at 7.30pm.

Present were: 10 Councillors, the Clerk and three members of the public.

The meeting began by welcoming Mr Peter Kerr who is an Officer with the Environment Agency but in particular with issues dealing with Flood Defence.

He began by summarising how and why flooding occurs either through natural causes or by ineffective defences against rising levels of river water. Also global warming has an affect.

His purpose is to bring to people's attention how best to deal with flooding either as individuals or as a village working co-operatively with the Parish Council. He envisages a two-way street involving the village and the Environment Agency.

In Haydon Bridge there are still risks from flooding despite work being done particularly in Martins Close. Talks are underway to review the methods of flood warning to give folk as much time as possible. He stressed that the river here does rise very quickly and people need to be aware of this. Works planned include further strengthening at Martins Close, dialogue with the Caravan Site, reviewing the flood warning trigger levels and to work with the Parish Council to try to identify concerns locally and how best to deal with them.

Mr Kerr felt that there needed to be much more Environmental Awareness issues within the schools and in the businesses and Community Groups.

Councillors raised various concerns. These included: trying to work with the Council to keep drains cleared – not to come along when the roads are flooded!; is the new development at Innerhaugh at risk? What about the various pipes discharging into the river, will new backflow valves be fitted? One Councillor mentioned a rather large tree on the south bank upstream from the bridges which is dead and in imminent danger of collapsing into the river and also likely to bring with it a substantial amount of the river bank. Whose responsibility is it to look into this matter? Cllr Mitchell suggested that a joint meeting with the Parish Council, Tynedale and the County Council be convened soon to debate the issues raised.

Cllr Smith welcomed the knowledge that the developers of new houses must install flood protection in appropriate places rather than the Council or whoever, but his concerns centre around the older properties. They need consideration also.

As discussion continued it was suggested that the A69 would flood at some stage with depths from about 3/4" to 5/6'. This of course raised the issue of the A69 at the Spa Well. Continuous erosion at the site will very shortly affect this road. How could the Environment Agency intervene? As it is a matter for Roadlink and the County Council, the E.A would intervene where works would impinge on the riverbank.

The Chair thanked Mr Kerr who then left the meeting.

Public Participation: 1. A resident at the Showfield asked about the promised Dog Bin. She was told that it had been ordered and that it would be placed on the Langley Road.

2. The same resident asked about the provision of a lamp on the bend as it is very dark. She was assured that provision had been made in next year's budget to have one. There were no other matters from the Public so the formal part of the meeting continued.

Matters Arising from previous meeting: 1. Mr Bates' interests had been duly noted.

- 2. The Church clock appeared to be working again a loose wire was reconnected.
- 3. Concerns were further expressed regarding student transport to Newcastle colleges. Some funding is available but not for everyone which is strange. An issue of what sort of courses were available at the High School was raised but the Chair intervened by saying that this was a matter between the school and the colleges and the PC could not get embroiled.
- 4. The meeting at the Community Centre on 5th November was attended by a number of people to look at, discuss the Tynedale Local Plan. It was a disappointing effort and it was recommended that the Clerk write to the Council expressing deep concerns.
- 5. Community Punishment as discussed last time. Painting of the underpass is to go ahead and materials will be purchased by the PC. Work to begin on 7th December.
- 6. A quote has been received for the repairs to the bus shelter.
- 7. Concerns still exist regarding Church Street repairs. Has the work finished? Not yet! Pavements still need to be reinstated to previous standards. Dragging on!

There was nothing to report from the Tynedale Council meeting. The two TDC Cllrs felt that the new arrangements were not working and they only seemed to be 'rubber stamping' decisions rather than having the opportunities to discuss issues.

Highways: Cllr Charlton and a group went to Hexham to look at the A69 Route Management Strategy consultation document recently published.

The consultants present seemed initially off-hand but relaxed as the day went on. The leaflet highlighting the areas of concern appears to have been produced by a person who seems to know nothing of the problems on this particular trunk road. The leaflet states that ... the route caters for high volumes of local and tourist traffic, feeding regional areas of employment, shopping and recreation No mention is made of the juggernauts which pound through the village!!

Cllrs are distributing these leaflets in the village. You are welcome to pick up a copy from the Co-op and the PC encourages people to complete and return to the Highways Agency the questionnaire attached.

Do please get a copy, read it and return the form.

The Rural Transport Partnership was also raised. It was highlighted that there does not seem to be any cohesion between the various groups. More co-ordination is needed to carry forward plans. People like Helen Winter and Peter Sinclair were mentioned who have crucial roles to play. Also that Haydon Bridge must be involved in any planning stages.

Cllr Smith indicated that he was to Chair a meeting in the Council Chamber (Hexham) on 3rd December. Cllr Charlton will attend.

Lighting: Nothing further to report other than that mentioned during the Public session.

Planning Applications: A number were tabled and Cllrs did not feel any warranted objections.

Correspondence: The Clerk read out a number of letter including one from Roadlink regarding work to be done on the barriers at the end of the Old Bridge. Confusion exists here because TDC thinks the work has been done, the contractors having been paid. However, this recent letter suggests that the work could be done for about £750. Who is right? Cllr Philp will respond to the letter.

Others included a letter from a resident expressing concern at the state of the Old Graveyard; renewable energy initiatives at local level; copies of the Minutes of Allendale Parish Council expressing concerns for the new hospital in Hexham.

Village Projects: The proposed site for toilets on the North of the river does not appear to be large enough.

The Wrought Iron gate for the Church yard is ready.

Hordley Acres House: In quite a dangerous state and are there any plans to demolish? How can we find out?

Copies of the Minutes of the Finance Group were tabled and briefly discussed. The precept for the next year was agreed upon.

Brief mention of Shaftoe Park – the proposed new playground – was made. Should be a tremendous asset once established.

Date of next meeting: Thursday 19th December at 7.30pm

HISTORICAL NOTES OF HAYDON BRIDGE - Dennis Telford

My story of the Ridley Estates and our late Queen Mother's connection has covered over 350 years of our local history. It has touched not only our own beautiful countryside but also the huge building which houses the Bowes Museum at Barnard Castle on the south side of the Tees, Streatlam Park three miles north east of Barnard Castle, the Gibside Estate in the Derwent Valley and Glamis Castle in Scotland, the Bowes-Lyon's ancestral home

Following John Bowes' death in 1885 (October Haydon News) the Ridley Hall Estate reverted to the main Bowes-Lyon family.

RIDLEY HALL & THE BOWES-LYON FAMILY: To 1948

Claude Lyon-Bowes, later to become Bowes-Lyon, acceded to the title of 13th Earl of Strathmore in 1865. He had married Frances Dora Smith in 1853 and they had eleven children.

The first child born in 1855 was a boy, Claude George Bowes-Lyon. His marriage to Cecilia Nina Cavendish-Bentinck produced ten children including Elizabeth Angela Marguerite who was to become our Queen Mother.

The 13th Earl's second child was another boy, Elizabeth's uncle, Francis Bowes-Lyon born on 23rd February 1856. Francis married Lady Anne Lindsay in 1883 and Ridley Hall was to become their home.

Ridley Hall had fallen into disrepair as little had been done to maintain it since Susan Davidson's death in 1877, but no expense was spared by the Bowes-Lyon family in renovating and extending William Lowes' original 1773 Georgian house. The work began in 1891 and the architect was Horatio A. Adamson.

The 18th century west wing became the kitchens and nine servant bedrooms and the much grander 19th century mansion extension provided the main hall, drawing room, Library, dining room and billiard room on the ground floor. Eight bedrooms were provided on the first floor and eight nursery bedrooms and school room on the second floor. The lodge, entrance gateway and drive were built, a walled kitchen garden laid out and greenhouses erected.

And so it was that the Queen Mother's uncle Francis and Aunt Anne took residence in Ridley Hall, along with her seven cousins: Muriel (1884 – 1968); Charles (1885 – 1914); Geoffrey (1886 - 1951); Doris (1887 - 1918); Winifred (1889 - 1968); Ronald (1883 - 1960) and Lilian Helen (1895 - 1949).

Lady Anne Bowes-Lyon died in 1936. Francis, her husband, died on 18th February 1948. During his time at Ridley Hall Francis Bowes-Lyon was President of the Haydon Bridge Flower & Horticultural Society.

Of the seven children, only Ronald and Geoffrey married. Geoffrey Bowes-Lyon had three children, Caroline, (Sir) James and Sarah and the Ridley Hall and Beltingham connection is still alive through his descendants.

Lilian Bowes-Lyon died in 1949, the year after her father, and has left a legacy of published poems and other material.

Muriel Bowes-Lyon is perhaps the best known of the children for her work at Ridley Hall. She re-designed the formal gardens, planting Rhododendrons, Azaleas and other flowering shrubs and filled the woods and grassland with numerous Snowdrop and Daffodil bulbs.

Only one generation of the Bowes-Lyon family lived in the re-built Hall and when Francis Bowes-Lyon died in 1948, the Queens Mother's direct connection with Ridley Hall ended, although her cousins, the Misses Bowes-Lyon 'retired' to live in Beltingham.

RIDLEY HALL FOLLOWING THE BOWES-LYON FAMILY

The Ridley Woods still give us so much pleasure in 2002 and that has a great deal to do with those who have gone before us, maybe especially Susan Hussey-Elizabeth Davidson over one hundred and twenty-five years ago. The present Hall is a monument to the Bowes-Lyon family but we should not forget its previous five hundred years of history.

The Estate was eventually sold to the Catholic Trust and from that time the Hall has been used for educational purposes. The Reverend E.A. Evans purchased the Hall for £7,000 and transferred his St. Nicholas' Boys Preparatory School there from Hexham. The school amalgamated with the Clark-Lowes Preparatory School from Featherstone and remained at Ridley Hall for seventeen years.

The lease was taken over by Northumberland County Council and the Hall became a Teachers' Training centre, under the auspicious of the Northern Counties College of Education.

Of course the Hall is now a boarding annexe for Haydon Bridge High School and to bring you right up to date, in September 2002 permission was sought to use Ridley Hall as a venue for marriages. Do they get married before they leave school now?

The Ridley Woods are well known as Allen Banks, having been bequeathed in 1942 to the National Trust who spend £40,000 a year to maintain them and the 'Starward Gorge'. The original walled garden is the car park and picnic area.

REFERENCES

Those readers who have followed my notes since the September issue will recognise the complexity of the story. There has been considerable opportunity for me to get my lines of research crossed, especially as the sources of reference occasionally appear contradictory. Having re-read the documentary evidence again, and again however, I believe that my presentation over the last three months is factually accurate, bearing in mind that in the interest of clarity I have deliberately omitted a great deal from the most fascinating stories of the Ridley, Lowes, Davidson, Bowes and Lyon family history.

If you are interested in further information, the following publication have been particularly useful in my research and I am indebted to their authors.

- A History of Northumberland (Part II, Vol. III) John Hodgson (1840)
- John Bowes and the Bowes Museum Charles Hardy. (1970)
- Comprehensive Guide to Northumberland. Tomlinson (1888)
- Portrait of Northumberland (1965) & A Northumbrian At Large (1975)

both by Nancy Ridley.

- Ridley and Ridley Hall. A booklet by Tony Storey (2000)

I am aware that some readers of the Haydon News use my work to supplement their own research into our locality.

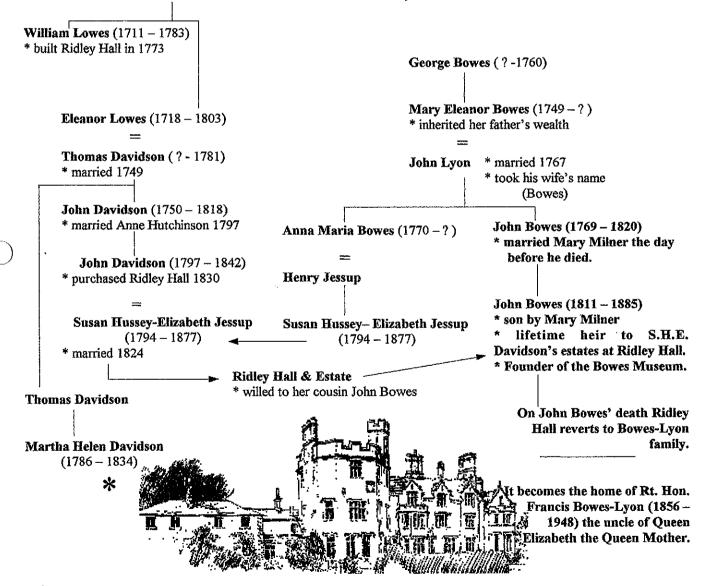

I include the following summary to assist and perhaps clarify my September, October and November 'Historical Notes'

MUSGRAVE RIDLEY – Lands conveyed to the Neville family NEVILLE family

JOHN LOWES. Purchased the original Ridley estates in 1653

WILLIAM LOWES. Lived at Crowhall in 1700

JOHN LOWES. Eldest son. Willed lands at Ridley Hall.

NATURAL REMEDIES FOR A HEALTHY BODY

Our packets of fruit, nuts and savoury snacks have been whizzing off our shelves lately as everyone prepares for Christmas and the New Year. Unfortunately there can be side effects from over-indulging in alcohol and rich foods.

Here are some of the ways to ease the problems.

Alcohol depletes the body of B vitamins so taking a strong B100 complex before going out and the morning after may help to replace what is lost. Vitamin C is a good detoxifier and again is best taken before and after indulging.

Evening Primrose Oil's active ingredient G.L.A is often reported to help with a hang-over, because alcohol increases the body's need for G.L.A. Up to 3,000 mg. may be taken.

We recommend trying one of two herbs that gained a lot of press last year for helping the Liver. Milk Thistle and Artichoke.

Milk thistle may help to counteract the harmful effects of alcohol on the liver, it helps the liver to rid itself of toxins and research has shown it to be capable of regenerating injured Liver cells. Artichoke aids the gall bladder and liver and many of our customers tell us it can give quick relief for abdominal pain, heartburn, bloatedness and wind.

The Americans swear by charcoal capsules for helping hangover symptoms. (It also helps to absorb gas and we have customers who give charcoal biscuits to their dogs too!)

Peppermint or ginger capsules are popular for reducing nausea and indigestion. The homeopathic remedy NUX VOM is reported to be good for people suffering from oversensitivity to noise, lights, children or music, it may also help calm bloodshot eyes, headaches and stomach upset.

It is important to remember that excess alcohol dehydrates the body so it is essential to keep drinking water to rehydrate the body. Some people add a water soluble vitamin C tablet to one glass.

Important: Pregnant Ladies, anyone taking prescription medication, or anyone under medical supervision should consult their Doctor before using complimentary therapies.

All the best for the festive season.

Wishing you all a happy and healthy New Year.

LANGLEY WOMENS INSTITUTE

Langley members welcomed Dr. Alan Donaldson, a scientist, who talked about life on a desert island.

The island on which he lived for a year was ALDABRA in the Indian Ocean. It lies halfway between the coast of Africa and Madagasgar.

Aldabra is the largest atoll in the world and has been listed as a World Heritage Site with five times as many Land Tortoises than can be found on Galapagos amounting to some 200,000. Also found on the island is the last flight-less bird of the Indian Ocean, the White-Throated Rail.

The talk was accompanied by wonderful slides of Frigate birds, Red-footed Boobies, Egrets, Turtles and other wild-life including sharks.

The atoli rises some eight metres above sea level and is mushroom-shaped. The northern portion of the atoli is rimmed with mangroves around a large, shallow lagoon which empties twice a day. On a wet, bitterly cold night this very hot place was very comforting!

During the business meeting the Pie & Pea Supper on the 22nd November was discussed and boxes were covered with attractive paper for Raffle Hampers.

Also, arrangements were made for the Christmas Party.

The competition, "A Shell" was won by Doreen Davidson and second was Frances Wise.

The Raffle was won by M. Bowen.

GOING IN AND OUT OF FASHION.

Nothing in medicine should ever be taken as the last word – including this statement. Fads and fashions afflict medicine in exactly the same way as they bear on any other aspect of life. Last year's fashionable hem length is this year's fashion disaster. The greatest scientific breakthrough since breakfast is inevitably overhauled by the greatest scientific breakthrough since lunch.

The sole remaining sensible position for the alert citizen to take is one of balance and moderation. Every alcoholic drink a woman takes increases her chance of getting breast cancer we are now told and in the next paragraph we read that wine, in moderation, protects against dementia whereas beer does not. Previously I have mentioned that the benefits of wine drinking seem to be equalled by the consumption of red grape juice. Confusion reigns.

A high cholesterol reading appears to be 'a bad thing' but doubts are now a being expressed about potential problems arising when cholesterol falls too low. The statin group of drugs, used for lowering cholesterol, seem to exert a beneficial effect even in people with a cholesterol reading within acceptable levels before treatment. Diet plays some part in lowering cholesterol levels but cannot be relied upon alone and it should never be forgotten that the body needs some cholesterol to function properly anyway.

Eating fish regularly confers useful health benefits but there's none left in the local oceans.

It is much easier to identify problem dietary habits than it is to confidently define the ideal diet. People who rarely or never eat fresh fruit and/or vegetables are missing out on important nutrients but may go for a very long time before becoming overtly unwell. People who subsist on burgers, chips and beer will probably get by for years but they are storing up problems for themselves later. Little old ladies who partake of nothing more adventurous than jam sandwiches and tea will not enjoy the best of health and will lack the vigour of their more diet aware contemporaries.

Strict vegetarianism can be nutritionally disastrous if not done with proper thought and planning. Done well, it can be sustained for life with the added benefit of some sense of moral accomplishment and ecological rectitude.

Recent investigations reveal that cooking itself may create harmful chemicals in our food, especially high temperature cooking like frying or grilling or baking.

The majority of people living a westernised lifestyle, whether rich or poor, are overweight because we eat more than our bodies require and are too inactive. This predisposes us to many health problems that are avoidable.

There are some Japanese islands where the natives are noted for their exceptionally long life spans and striking resistance to many of the 'diseases of decadence' to which we are so prone. A feature of their culture is a lifelong habit of eating no more at a meal than that which partly satisfies their hunger – they never eat 'til they are full. They have a great deal of seafood in their diet, rice, vegetables and little meat. There is little fat or salt in the diet, no added sugar, no processed foods and their cooking processes are basic and brief.

A diet rich in fruit and vegetables, sufficient to keep our weight within a desirable range, accompanied by moderate wine consumption and increased exercise seems the happy medium and should not be hard to do – cheaper in fact, probably. All that's missing for most of us is the discipline to adhere to it and there we drift into the realm of psychology, metaphysics and cultural considerations.

If only life were simpler...

FOOD WITH A DIFFERENCE

There are many things that I would hesitate to eat whilst abroad but then again, why be boring?

Prosaic foods can be entertaining, such as the elaborately and beautifully garnished fish finger that was served with spectacular élan as an entrée in Gambia. Fried flying fish sandwich is a Caribbean favourite that is cheap, nutritious and delicious but beware the chilli sauces that sometimes accompany them — I had terminal mouth for hours. In Iceland we spied 'Puffin in chocolate' and 'Cormorant en croute' but on that occasion we restrained ourselves.

Closer to home, I have never had a duff meal in any village or local restaurant. I was, however, subject to whole new experience recently at The Cart's Bog, which is under new management. I was kissed Good-bye by the Maitre d'—the food was excellent too!

Reception and atmosphere is so important but any male Maitre d'hoping to duplicate the pleasing effect may receive a different response – whiskers rasping together just doesn't do it for me at all.

FROM 'THE INDEPENDENT' 27 October 2002

"The earlier a woman has sex, the less stressed she is as an adult, scientists have discovered. When they questioned women about their sexual history and tested them for levels of a stress hormone, they found that the lowest levels were among those who had sex the earliest. A similar but smaller effect was found for men.

In the research, carried out at the University of Tübingen in Germany, volunteers completed questionnaires, and had their saliva tested for levels of cortisol before and after they were exposed to the stresses of preparing to speak in public to strangers for five minutes and perform mental arithmetic aloud. The body secretes increased amounts of cortisol in response to stress. Stress levels were up to 60 per cent lower in women who lost their virginity before their 18th birthday.

The scientists, who report their findings in the journal Psychoneuro-endocrinology this week, say an early age for first sex might be a marker for a genetic predisposition to react less to stress. Another theory is that a woman who has sex early in life is likely to have more frequent intercourse which itself results in a reduced response to stress. A career in research has so many possibilities. Now that we have this information what should we do about it? Answers on a post card please.

A LAZY SPACE FILLER FROM THE NET...

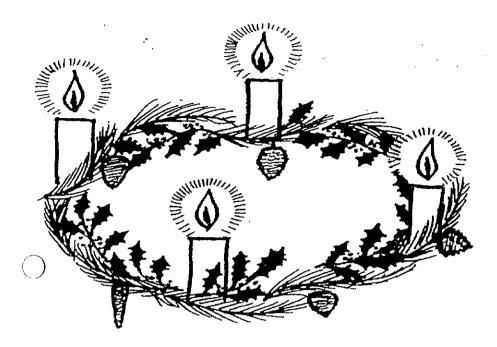

Now that I'm 'older' (but refuse to grow up), here's what I found

- I started out with nothing, and I still have most of it.
- My wild oats have turned into prunes and All Bran.
- I finally got my head together; now my body is falling apart.
- 4. Funny, I don't remember being absent minded...
- 5. If all is not lost, where is it?
- It is easier to get older than it is to get wiser.
- The only time the world beats a path to your door is when you're in the bathroom.
- If God wanted me to touch my toes, he would have put them on my knees.
- It's not hard to meet expenses ... they're everywhere.
- These days, I spend a lot of time thinking about the hereaf ter . . . I go somewhere to get something and then wonder what I'm here after.

Circle Time!

Advent is a waiting and watching time. It is the season which invites the Church to gather up the story of its past, present and future and and future and wonder at it all over again. It is a time when adults can learn from

Ildren. Way before they can read, children know their favourite stories by heart and know little

nd at once if anything is ne missing or forgotten. ne Advent invites us to revisit ne the heart of the Christian at story: God so loved the world that God gave God's Only Begotten Son so that whoever believes will live forever. Advent calls us back to the beginning so that the present may be lit up by hope of the joy to come.
